

Rye Brook Parks Department employee Waz Colantuono spends the evening serving residents sweet treats, as he takes on the role of ice cream scooper and topper.

I scream, you scream, we all scream for ice cream!

Community can rejoice in ice cream, friends and fun at the Village of Rye Brook's Ice Cream Fridays for the rest of the month

Terrace Court resident Connor Ware, 4, eats a spoonful of rainbow ice flavored ice cream topped with rainbow sprinkles at Ice Cream Friday on July 13 at Pine Ridge Park, sponsored by the Village of Rye Brook. Rye Brook Recreation will provide free ice cream, a bounce house and entertainment at the park for community members to enjoy every Friday throughout the month of July from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

Sliding out with a smile, 3-year-old Carlton Lane resident Cooper Okun exits the bounce house after spending time jumping inside.

Her smile says it all. One-year-old Ella Rende sports a soda jerk hat embellished with the Ice Cream Fridays' event logo as she enjoys the evening with her family.

Peek-a-boo! Boxwood Place resident Emma Wiener, 2, pokes her head through the opening of the bounce house.
